

Holt's Mill Restoration

Garland, Maine

Literally on the banks of the Kenduskeag Stream in Garland, Maine sits this building that was constructed in the late 1800's as part of Holt's Mill. Purchased in 2006 the building is to be renovated into a new home for the owner's and their teenage son. With large windows to the north to take in views of the Kenduskeag Stream and windows on the east and west facades to take in morning and afternoon sun, this home will be filled with natural light. The cupola is open to the second floor, timber framed family room.

East Elevation